STANDARD-BASED LEARNING

New training videos developed especially for Adventist teachers are now available on the Adventist Learning Community. Implementing Standards-based Learning in Adventist Schools is a course by Tammy Heflebower that reviews all the major concepts from the book A Teacher's Guide to Standards-based Learning. In addition, each presentation segment is followed by video examples and interviews of Adventist teachers, elementary, secondary, and multi-grade, currently implementing SBL in their classrooms. Follow this link to register for the class:

REACH ZOOM MEETINGS

If you are unfamiliar with REACH (Reaching to Educate All Children for Heaven) and the resources available to you with meeting the needs of struggling students, please make sure you put April 25 and May 2 on your calendar. Our Pacific Union special education specialists will be conducting an hour-long training after school on each of those days to help you become familiar with REACH resources and answer your questions about the special needs of your students. More information on times and the zoom link will be sent to your conferences. Please watch for this important information.

TO PONDER...

Thank you for being an educator. Your efforts in the classroom make a difference for each one of your students. Take a minute or two to watch these videos and know you are changing lives for eternity.
